Reading

Locate, retrieve and elaborate on information		Understand structure, organisation and presentation		Understand themes and conventions in texts
I can decide what to include in note taking to gain a precise summary of key points	🎯	I can evaluate the presentation of texts for their effectiveness in sharing/conveying information (e.g. bullet points for the main points)	🎯	I can consider how my experiences and context (background) influence the effect of a text	🎯
I can use direct evidence from sections of text to explain and justify more detailed opinions	🎯	I can comment on how narrative structure can be used to engage and affect the reader (e.g. flashback, cliff hanger, illustration/text relationship)	🎯	I can identify how some writers attempt to challenge conventions in narrative (e.g. "Handsome Hero" and Shrek)	🎯
I can use retrieval/finding skills to respond to increasingly abstract/open question prompts (e.g. what does the passage tell us about the character?)	🎯	I can understand how paragraphs are linked to build knowledge, tension or move a text along e.g. develop a plot	🎯	Compare, contrast and evaluate texts
Use inference and deduction to make interpretations		Understand language, technique and style		I can compare the detail with which different sources convey/give information	🎯
I can distinguish between implicit (implied) and explicit (clearly stated) points of view	🎯	I can identify and comment on the use of expressive, figurative and descriptive language to create effect	🎯	I can express preferences for texts by combining an understanding of significant ideas, themes, events and characters and their impact on the reader	🎯
I can begin to use clues in language to set the text in context (e.g. The musket fired; They ran down the sidewalk)	🎯	I can relate language choices made by the author to the characteristics of the genre.	🎯	I can compare and contrast the way that fiction and non-fiction texts treat the same themes (e.g. Iron Age fiction, Stories set in Africa)	🎯
		I can explain how writers can use language to influence reader's viewpoint	🎯
