

My Fabulous Trip to the NHM

On Thursday 25th June I went to school earlier than normal because Tigers and Lions were going to the Natural History Museum in London. When we arrived at school we quickly did the register and then lined up at the door. Excitedly, we walked to the huge double decker coach! I sat at the top with my partner.

After an hour on the coach we arrived at the museum and we carefully climbed off the coach and lined up in our groups. We went straight to the lunch hall because our lunch slot was at 11am. After that, we were able to go and explore the different zones.

There was a red zone, blue zone, green zone and orange zone. My group started at the red zone so we had to go up the escalator which went through the centre of our planet. It was amazing! We saw a video of an earthquake and I felt very sad for the people caught up in it.

Next, we went to the bug room but Maddie and I didn't really like it because we don't really like creepy crawlies!

Then, we went to see the dinosaurs. This was my favourite part because we got to see the moving T-Rex! It was so realistic. There were lots of different types of dinosaurs and lots of information about each one.

At 2 o'clock it was time to go home so we went down to the lunch hall to collect our bags. We were all feeling extremely tired so lots of us fell asleep on the coach!

What was your favourite part of the trip?
